

NHS England requires that the net earnings of doctors engaged in the practice is published, and the required disclosure is shown below. However it should be noted that the prescribed method for calculating earnings is potentially misleading because it takes no account of how much time the doctors spend working in the practice, and should not be used to form any judgement about GP earnings, nor to make any comparison with any other practice.

All GP practices are required to declare the mean earnings (e.g. average pay) for GPs working to deliver NHS services to patient at each practice.

The average earnings for GPs working in Stillmoor House Medical Practice in the last financial year was £35,804 before tax and National Insurance. This is for 3 full-time, 4 part-time and 5 locum GPs who worked in the practice more than six months.